GOOD NEWS, GOOD FOOD AT THE 2019 EXPO

FLORENCE—Anyone interested in agriculture can dig deeper at Lunch ‘n Learn sessions during the SC AgriBiz & Farm Expo. Set for Jan. 23 and 24 at the Florence Center, the expo has sessions for farmers, women in agriculture and other agribusiness leaders. The purpose of the expo is for participants to gain knowledge to help their businesses grow.

“Education is what the SC AgriBiz & Farm Expo is all about,” said show manager Jody Martin. “These Lunch ‘n Learns are a great way to enjoy a good meal and learn something new at the same time. Attendees can grab a special lunch featuring local products and pick one of the topics that interests them the most.”

Lunch ‘n Learns are scheduled for both days of the expo. On Wednesday, sessions include “Online Marketing: What You Thought You Knew,” presented by Jan Nirri with Success Factor Consultants, and “Environmental Controlled Growing in Greenhouses,” presented by Dave Kowert and Thomas McNeil with NextTrack Consulting.

For Thursday, Kevin Yon, Sunbelt Southeastern Farm of the Year, will tell the story of Yon Family Farms and the success they have had in raising Angus feedstock herds. A son and grandson of sharecroppers, Yon and his family established Yon Family Farms in Ridge Spring as one of the best Angus feedstock herds in the nation.

Another Lunch ‘n Learn session on Thursday will focus on farm succession planning. Mike Bleachy, regional program director for Nationwide’s Land as Your Legacy program, will offer practical advice on inheritance and passing the farm to future generations.

In addition to the Lunch ‘n Learn sessions, the expo will offer two general sessions and four educational tracks. The tracks are: field crops, fruits and vegetables, livestock and women in agriculture. Topics include growing industrial hemp in South Carolina, maximizing corn and soybean yields, trade, the farm bill, livestock, and fruit and vegetable production.

“Whether you produce cotton, soybeans, corn, or grow peaches or vegetables, there will be something for you at the expo,” Martin said. “We know there will be a lot of interest in the two industrial hemp sessions on Wednesday afternoon and a lot of interest in the two maximizing corn and soybean yield seminars presented by Dr. Ron Heiniger with N.C. State and champion North Carolina farmer Kevin Matthews on Thursday,” he added.

The SC AgriBiz & Farm Expo will include more than 100 exhibitors of farm equipment, supplies and services. Admission is free.

More information on all educational sessions, speaker biographies and other expo details are available at scagribizexpo.com.

Farmers can see the latest equipment from dealers all over the Southeast.

Talking to vendors is always a highlight of the expo, with more than 100 displays offering cutting-edge information.

A NEW FARM BILL

I am pleased that my colleagues in Washington were able to get a new Farm Bill done before the holidays, and I am hopeful that many factors of this legislation will directly assist South Carolina farmers.

With a new Farm Bill comes new legislation, which will set federal agricultural and food policy for the next five years. We’ll touch briefly on a few areas of particular interest.

South Carolina has the fourth largest peanut industry in the country, yet our state was not represented on the Peanut Standards Board at the U.S. Department of Agriculture. I am proud to say that with the passage of the Farm Bill, the South Carolina Peanut Parity Act has been approved. The act will give our farmers a seat at the table.

The dairy industry has continued to struggle with consistent low prices, and the new legislation strengthens the dairy safety net. Dairy producers will be able to buy insurance-type coverage to protect against low margins—the difference between the price of milk and the cost of production.

On the bad news side, USDA recently announced that net farm income is projected to drop 12 percent in 2018. To help counter that trend, the legislation strengthens the Agriculture Risk Coverage and Price Loss Coverage options through 2023.

Beginning in crop year 2021, the bill offers producers a new choice between the two programs on a crop-by-crop and farm-by-farm basis, applied jointly to the 2019 and 2020 crop years.

Hemp has been a hot topic since our state passed the Industrial Hemp Pilot Program. The new Farm Bill removes hemp from the list of controlled substances and recognizes the crop as an agricultural commodity.

The language of the Farm Bill strikes a common-sense balance between proper regulation and the flexibility required for hemp to be seen as a newly emerging commodity.

The 2018 Farm Bill also helps combat the predatory trading practices of foreign countries, which is a huge step for agriculture. Furthermore, it restructures incentives to improve our response to natural disasters, protects farms from costly red tape, provides additional funding for animal disease prevention, and increases funding for research, extension, and education projects in agriculture.

Another important point is improvements to the nation’s largest anti-hunger program – SNAP—to track its integrity and to incentivize work.

These positive changes are just what our farmers need to keep them doing what they do best: providing food, fiber and products for all of us.

Happy New Year!

Hugh Weathers

SC PEANUT GROWERS SEEKS NATIONAL PEANUT BOARD NOMINEES

ABOUT THE STATE PRODUCER GROUP

South Carolina Peanut Growers are seeking eligible peanut producers who are interested in serving on the National Peanut Board.

The board will hold an election to select two nominees for alternates to the National Peanut Board during a meeting at 4:30 pm on Wednesday, January 23 at Clark’s Restaurant in Santee. All eligible peanut producers are encouraged to participate. Eligible producers are those who are engaged in the production and sale of peanuts and who own or share the ownership and risk of loss of the crop.

Neal Baxley Jr. of Mullins currently serves as the alternate. The term for the current South Carolina alternate expired on December 31, 2018.

USDA requires two nominees for the position. The National Peanut Board will submit South Carolina’s slate of nominees to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, who makes the appointments.

The National Peanut Board encourages anyone who qualifies as a peanut producer to attend the meeting and run for nomination.

The South Carolina Peanut Board is a farmer-led organization whose mission is to increase consumer awareness and consumption of peanuts while creating a positive economic impact for producers.

The peanut board offers several services, including educational packages (teacher kits) and educational videos for teachers, along with other consumer information. Posters, small packages of peanuts, and different types of recipes are available.

Funding for board activities comes solely from producer assessments. The board of directors is made up of peanut producers elected by producers from South Carolina. For more information call Marianne Copelan at 803-734-0338.
